The Preeminence of Christ and the Motherland Religions Delores A. Vaughan
The "Motherland Religions" are defined as any number of established traditional belief systems, philosophies, ideologies, and practices of the African people from their native land and culture. There are many Cults endangering the spiritual welfare of the black culture, and reeking havoc on numerous Christian fellowships, which are predominantly black. The Black Clergy are giving into them at an alarming rate, because of the absence of "The Preeminence of Christ". Cults within the black culture can walk into various Churches, stand in their pulpits, present their own ideologies, and take half, if not all the congregation with them. All of this is done under the banner "Christianity".
