Thirteenth Night: A Mother's Story of the Life and Death of Her Son Jan McNess
On the thirteenth of September, 1993, Jeremy McNess was killed when the F-111 he was flying plunged into the ground at one thousand feet per second at Guyra in northern New South Wales. In that same instant, the world of his mother, Jan McNess, changed permanently and irrevocably. Thirteenth Night is Jan McNess's eulogy to her dead son. In it she talks candidly of his early years as a difficult child and her pride when he finally achieved his life's dream to become a fighter pilot. She also talks of the terrible mind-numbing grief she felt in the first months after his death and how that grief, and the anger of a life cut brutally short, fuelled her four-year quest to make the RAAF take some responsibility for the accident that killed her son.
